Experience Italy in a Wine glass

Ghemme DOCG

Ghemme DOCG is a tiny appellation - only 73 hectares (180 acres) - in the Sesia Val Grande UNESCO Global Geopark area, situated at the foothills of Monterosa. The area enjoys vast diurnal temperature changes, due to the cool winds from Monte Rosa, which favor lovely and persistent aromatic properties. This wine boasts exceptional longevity and is a wonderful alternative to Barolo and Barbaresco thanks to its elegance, heightened aromas, balanced acidity and vibrant tannins.
